NSW RURAL FIRE SERVICE

Windellama Rural Fire Brigade

In an emergency or if you see an unattended fire call Triple Zero (000)

Get Ready now - We live with bush fire. So we live bush fire ready.

It can take just a few days of hot windy weather for bad fire conditions to return. Take the time to Get Ready. It takes 5 minutes to make a plan that will give your property, family and yourself the best chance of survival should you be threatened by a bush fire. www.myfireplan.com.au If there is a bush or grass fire in Windellama, you will find its alert level on the NSW RFS website at www.rfs.nsw.gov.au and in the 'Hazards Near Me NSW' app.

Bush Fire Danger Period commenced 1 October 2023 and runs to 31 March 2024.

To light a fire in the open during this time other than a campfire or cooking fire, you must have a Fire Permit. A permit is not automatic and in many cases one will not be issued. Factors will be considered such as your preparation, the topography for the burn, availability of fire suppression equipment and the potential to wait until the Bush Fire Danger Period is over. Someone must be present to supervise the fire at all times until it is totally out.

Substantial fines and prison terms may apply to persons found to be in breach of the Rural Fires Act 1997 and its Regulations as well as civil action should your fire destroy the property of others. To apply for a permit contact our NSW RFS Fire Control Centre on 6226 3100.

Brigade activity

- 1 unit with 2 members were deployed for a week to manage earthmoving equipment building control lines at the 7295ha Cooloolalite fire on the NSW South Coast

- 4 units attended a 2ha bushfire on Oallen Ford Rd on a total fire ban day
- 1 unit attended two pile burns on Fernleigh Close on a total fire ban day
- 3 units attended an MVA on Oallen Ford Rd Shoalhaven River, providing first aid and assistance until Police Rescue, Ambulances and SES arrived

September 2023 Rainfall at our place

Rainfall for September at our place was in short supply receiving only 17mm.

October 2023 Rainfall at our place

Up to the 18th of this month we have had a total of 30.50mm. Last year we received a total of 192.50mm for October. I very much doubt, if we are going to achieve October 22 total?

In our garden

Currently, our gardens are in a maintenance stage between weeding and preparing for warm weather plants like Lettuce, Tomato, Pumpkin and Zucchini to name some.

One of our lemon Trees keeps dropping its marble size tiny fruit after they turn black. I suspect it could be a fungal problem. So I will need to find out what treatment to apply.

The main Rose garden has been covered with weed matting and covered with wood chip. We both hope this will eliminate a lot of weeding. If the odd weed does poke its head up, the Weed Wand and its content will be applied to the weed.

Fruit Fly and Codling Moth Bait.

This year I'm using a similar bait recipe to last year based on Molasses. The main ingredients are:

- 1 cup of Vinegar (attractor)
- ½ cup of Molasses (lure)
- 1/8 teaspoon of Ammonia (attraction)
- 5 cups of Water
- Mix together

Note: I use this recipe but make it in a 9 litre watering can.

The ratio of ingredients are roughly as above in the watering can and as long as you have all the ingredients it works.

Last year I was Fruit Fly and CODLING MOTH FREE!

The more traps per tree, the better the results.

Fruit Trees

The Apricot trees are loaded as are the Cherries, Plums and Peaches. All I need to do now is keep eyes peeled for fungal infection signs and treat accordingly. Also, remove any fallen fruit on the ground.

Also, with all the current fruit load, thinning will be required.

Jobs for the month at our place

To continue making gardens water wise, as described September newsletter.

Adding more Fruit Fly and Codling Moth Traps. I don't think you can ever have enough.

Thin fruit trees bumper crops.

Keep Salad plants, Zucchini, Pumpkins etc., in jiffy pots growing, for transplanting out when frosts have finished.

Bird Life

The male Blue Wren still keeps bashing his image in the mirror finish on the same pot.

Wading birds like the White Egret, and two different Blue Herons, a white faced and a white neck. Both Herons have been missing for several years at our place but are now visiting more often.

The Willy Wagtails have resumed their Bulldog tenacity in driving out intruders in their domain.

CUT ABOVE HANDYMAN SERVICES

From Trees to Kitchen Sink

We have a qualified plumber and cert three aborist in our company.

We do general earthworks, tree removal, plumbing, block clearing and rural fencing.

Rubbish removal, excavator, bobcat and tipper.

Windellama SES First Aid & CFR

Thanks for your support throughout the year

May I give everyone a friendly reminder about the damage that the Wasps and Hornets can do. I have had much inconvenience caused by these pesky critters. Tension springs on equipment have been made inoperable.

Air intakes on engines completely blocked. A Dryazabone coat eaten away and completely ruined.

We have, by way of SES work, been very fortunate to have very few calls, despite the strong winds.

The CFR side of things has been a completely different story. We were not called to one major incident, which is very surprising.

I will obtain actual figures for our jobs, both SES and CFR for the January edition

Our Team is very grateful for the thank you that we receive from members of the general public as this makes you feel that your job is worthwhile.

We recently had a Care Flight scenario day at Crookwell SES Unit and this gave us a chance to team up with RFS members and it was a very pleasurable experience to team up with them. I made mention of this on the day.

May I take this opportunity to wish everyone of you all the very best for the Christmas and the New Year.

Thank you once again for your support throughout the past year.

Regards

Kevin Muffet

VEGETABLES TO BE PLANTED

Beans, both climbing and dwarf, carrots, beetroot, cabbage, silver beet, radish, parsnips, herbs, cucumber, squash, zucchini, pumpkins, capsicum, sweet corn, celery, lettuce, and tomatoes for a late crop.

FLOWERS

Ageratum, aster, carnation, cosmos, dahlia, linaria, lobelia, marigold, nasturtium, petunias, phlox, portulaca, snapdragon, verbena.

Amaranthus; popular summer display, which grows to 1m, highly colourful foliage and this plant loves hot weather. Add plenty of compost and balance fertilizer at the rate of 1/3 cup full per square metre.

Celosia; a unusual summer flowering plant, prepare the soil as the same as for Amaranthus, a semi –dwarf variety grows to 90cm. with scarlet plumes.(Forest fire). Fairy Fountain is a dwarf variety with plumes in scarlet, salmon, light pink, gold and yellow. A good border plant.

Cockscomb ; a bedding plant which is very similar to Celosia but flowers are tight velvety crests.

Coleus, cosmos, gazanias, zinnia. Can also be planted now.

Roses; Check them for aphids, hose off or smash off with your fingers, or you can spray with Rose spray.

Lawns; can be fertilized, but in conjunction with plenty of water.

Cherry Trees; Both fruiting and ornamental, can be attacked by a cherry slug. This pest is a very small shiny black slug which sucks the leaves and leaves them transparent and having a burnt appearance. They are easy control spraying with Malathion or dust the tree with Cabbage Dust also dusting with lime works. This slug also attacks pears trees as well.

Hints;

Soak seeds of beetroot and silver beet in warm lukewarm water for a few hours before sowing.

When planting your tomatoes bury the stem of the plant deeper into the ground, pinch off the any leaves that are on the section to go into the ground. Because tomato plants can produce roots from their stems, the result will be that plant ends up with a far sturdier and more extensive root system. I water the plants in with liquid molasses, about a half a cup to 1 litre of water.

Prune spring flowering shrubs, as soon as they`ve finished flowering such as May bush, mock orange, deutzias, diosmas, forsythias, and spring blossom trees. Any canes more than three years old should be completely cut out at the base to stimulate healthy new shoots.

Hello folks! First off, thank you to Veolia Trust for the grant that helped us replace the third hand flooring that was in the recreational area of the shed. You can see in the photos that the floor is now completed. Thank you to Carpet Court Goulburn.

What's Cooking at the Men's Shed.

Our catering has been a bit on the quiet side due to the revamping and modernising of the recreation area and "The Gentleman's Café".

There is a mixed gourmet B.B.Q on Saturday 11th of November and we require names of those who wish to join us, so that we order the right amount of food. Please see the Catering Notice Board for more information on this. All members are welcome as this is a great time to meet new members and catchup with the old ones.

Cheers, Cookie.

What the go.

The show goes on every week at the Shed. The last couple of weeks have been different, for the shed has had a spring clean with the new floor has been laid.

New Floor

The Men's Shed is always open to any community project that we can help with. We have thrown on the smock and put some paint on the tables down at the rec area for the Tarago Sporting Association. All looks lovely for the Show and Shine weekend.

Painting Rec Area

Our day trip this month was to the Men's Shed at Goulburn. Big thank you to Kym for arranging the get together. It was good to swap ideas and see how they do things at in Goulburn. The Goulburn Men's Shed has its own op shop which is open on the first Saturday of the month. We are keen to have more ideas for future trips so yell out if you can think of any.

We have had some interesting machinery donated to the Shed and our thanks goes to those people who supplied it.

Please be safe and look out for each other, if in doubt, call out for support.

The month started with a very successful workshop. Clare showed the class how to cut and decorate Christmas table ornaments from wooden boards and dowels. Everyone took turns cutting out the shapes on the mitre saw or the bandsaw and then assembled the pieces into either a Santa shape or row of miniature Christmas trees. After a BBQ lunch and dessert, the painting began. Everyone showed a lot of imagination in their choice of colour and design and so the resulting decorations were lovely.

In September we met members of the Goulburn Men's Shed at one of the Bunnings evening events we had attended. They were kind enough to invite us to visit their Shed for afternoon tea and of course we went. The Goulburn group has been going for many years near the railway yards and have a fascinating collection of tools and pieces they have made or repaired. On the first Saturday of the month they open a shop where you can buy a wide range of goods that have been donated: books, paintings, crafted objects and even furniture.

We returned the favour later in the month and some Goulburn members came to see our place and have lunch. Luckily the weather was kind and we were able to sit outside under the claret ash and chat. One of the main principles of the Shed movement is fellowship and knowledge-sharing between Sheds. It's always good to see how others do things.

IN THE SHED

Penelope is renovating a lovely cane chair, sanding it back lightly and rejuvenating the cane with linseed oil. Kerrie continues to improve her woodworking skills. She has almost completed a tool caddy from a template she designed herself. Kerrie plans to run a workshop next year showing others how to do this. Eve's clever son Nathan made her an adjustable jig so that she can more easily make decorative objects such as circles and stars out of barbed wire. The finished effect is prickly but very striking. Everyone else is either continuing to work on individual projects or sit in the tea room and chat. The latest jigsaw puzzle is proving very difficult as all the pieces are black and white lines and look very similar. Apparently when, or more likely if, completed it can be coloured in to reveal an underwater scene. We may never forgive the person who gave it to us.

At our last meeting members were interested in control measures for snails and slugs, as with the warmer weather making its appearance, these peaky little critters were showing their presence in a particularly annoying way. In other words, dining out on our gardens, which are just starting to grow again after the cold of winter. Our last article mentioned a number of control measures, including spreading coffee grounds and crushed egg shells, and now we can add another option. Evidently placing copper foil tape around your garden or particularly beloved plants will deter these guys. I don't think you have to run an electric current through the wire, just the copper itself seems to work well.

Of course, unless you have some spare copper strips lying around the shed, it may be an expensive exercise, but what value can you place on your beautiful plants? Thanks to Irene for this useful tip.

For our October meeting we all descended on Sue's place to see her latest plantings and admire her extensive vegetable and flower beds. As the day was pretty windy, we were happy to shelter in her screen house, where she maintains a number of raised garden beds, mostly constructed out of recycled screen doors. As usual, she had several beds doing very well and a number still being prepared for planting. Outside, the blue irises were in full bloom, providing a splash of colour along the garden beds and rockeries.

Sue has recently planted rows of box elder tree seedlings along her entrance road. These were salvaged from a car park area in Queanbeyan and established in her nursery, before planting out when they had reached a suitable size. When grown, they will make an impressive addition to the entry driveway. Let's hope the rabbits leave them alone.

In other members' gardens, Carolyn is having trouble with her lemon tree, which was moved some time ago. The leaves have decided to drop and it looks altogether a bit sickly. It could simply be homesick for its old place, or there might be something else going on, such as a mineral deficiency. The old fashioned way of invigorating lemon trees was to provide an ample dose of urea, which we encouraged John to supply at his leisure. Not that anyone was suggesting that John is full of urea. On the brighter side, Carolyn's vegie garden is moving along splendidly, and Sherrie's vegie seeds have germinated and are sprouting strongly.

Vivien is having issues with possums, who have taken a distinct liking to her roses, and are devouring not only the flowers but most of the foliage as well. Deterring these voracious feeders is not easy, and they don't seem to mind the rose thorns. She is also taking advantage of the presence of tree loppers in her area to collect their mulched tree clippings. This will make great mulch when cured and help keep the moisture in the soil. Just the thing coming into a dry and hot summer.

Kym is having great success with his fruit trees, and is looking forward to good crops of apricots, cherries and pomegranates, to name a few. He is also revitalising his vegie patch ready for summer planting, and is busy planting grape vines around his water tank. Unfortunately he struck bedrock at his preferred planting site, so opted instead for raised beds.

Lynda has been busy producing large numbers of potted vegie seedlings, including tomatoes, eggplants, cucumbers, watermelon and capsicums, which she sells at the markets. Proceeds go to the Black Dog Foundation, which supports people suffering from depression. She has also reported an encounter with some breeding black snakes. She is happy to have them around as they help control the number of brown snakes in the area, by eating their eggs and small hatchlings.

Finally, Fiona treated us to a display of some of her flowers. She brought in a selection of ranunculus and irises, which looked fabulous as a display.
